1. Jim Garrison telephoned to say that their current estimate for the total [REDACTED] housing project, including the Chief of Station's house, was $685,000. I told him to proceed with the contracting. (I have since indicated this in writing on a Memorandum for the Record signed by [REDACTED] a copy of which has been sent to John Clarke.)

2. This afternoon we conducted a preview of the Security Reindoctrination Program for the Director, General Carter, Dick Helms, Jim Angleton, and others. In general, it was an excellent presentation. Many suggestions were offered for its improvement, some of which we certainly can accept. The Director expressed himself as being well pleased with the Program and emphasized that we should work hard on supervisory responsibility. I told the Director that we were working on another program beamed at the total responsibility of the supervisor. (On 4 March, as he was saying good-by prior to his departure for Saigon, he asked me to make sure that we worked on this program hard and rapidly.)

3. Matt Baird telephoned to say that Mr. Kirkpatrick remarked in a speech today at the Interdepartmental Seminar that he had approved of a third class of JOT's each year.

4. General Carter was down to express his opposition to allowing [REDACTED] to carry a gun to Saigon when he accompanies the Director there tomorrow. I told him that Bob Bannerman and I had discussed this and had decided definitely that we would not permit Walt to carry a gun unless he was fully qualified. In General Carter's presence I telephoned Bob Bannerman, who told me that he had denied Walt's request and that he had made other arrangements for the Director's protection during his trip which seemed entirely adequate to General Carter and me.
